VANITIE BEATS RESOLUTE FULLY TWENTY MINUTES IN THE FIRST TRIAL RACE

Resolute Footed Better to Starting Line and Got Away 34 Seconds Ahead.

OFF IN 15 KNOT WIND.

But Breeze Is Faithless and Cup Defenders Fight for Air Before the Finish.

ASSOCIATED PRESS BOAT, June 2 (By wire).—On a fifteen-mile triangular course the cup yachts Vanitie and Resolute crossed the starting line shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon in the first preliminary race on Long Island Sound incident to selecting a boat to defend the America's Cup.

The Vanitie passed the Resolute, which had 34 second start at 8:03. Vanitie led Resolute by more than eight minutes when both sloops were rounding the first mark on their second time around the fifteen-mile course.

The Vanitie gave the Resolute a time allowance of more than three minutes, but notwithstanding this she was the race by at least twenty minutes. She crossed the line at 8:23, unofficial time.

The Resolute, owned by the flag officer's syndicate of the New York Yacht Club, slipped over the line at 12:45. This was 24 seconds ahead of the Vanitie, built for A. S. Cochran.

The weather was ideal. Just before the boats got under way a fresh northwester of fifteen knots wrinkled the surface of the Sound, but shortly after the start it had decreased to eight or ten knots. A large fleet of yachts and other pleasure craft followed the racers.

The Defiance, third of the claimants for cup defending honors, was not able to start today because her rig was being changed.

RESOLUTE OUTSAILS HER FOR STARTING LINE.

The regatta committee sounded the preparatory signal at 12:35 and ten minutes later the warning whistle was blown. The Resolute, close hauled, stood by the committee boat toward Rye Harbor. She was to windward of Vanitie, which also stood along the same board. Both sloops sent up baby jibtopsails in stops.

Capt. Dennis, sailing master of the Vanitie, was the first to come about and stand down for the line. This move was closely followed by Resolute.

Vanitie was luffed up into the wind in order to secure a windward position of Resolute. Resolute, however, was not to be denied in this move, and Charles F. Adams, at the wheel, quickly drove the Herreshoff boat to windward of Vanitie. Resolute footed faster than Vanitie and went over the line thirty-four seconds ahead of her rival. Both single-stickers broke out their baby jibtopsails as they came down upon the line and stood away toward Glen Cove harbor, with the wind on their port quarter.

At 1:05 Resolute was well to the weather of Vanitie and was more than holding her lead.

CREW DESERTED LINER'S LIFEBOATS, DECLARES WOMAN

"I Can Swear Kendall Was Not Out Making Rescues," Says Mrs. Andersen.

MONTREAL, June 2.—A new angle is given to the Empress of Ireland disaster in a remarkable account of the happening, given by Mrs. Andersen, the wife of the skipper of the Storstad. She contradicts most emphatically many of the statements made by Capt. Kendall of the Empress and his officers as to the method by which the rescued were taken from the water.

Unconsciously Mrs. Andersen proves herself to be a heroine. It was she who first sensed that the Empress was sinking and that the water was full of drowning people all around her husband's ship. She gave away to women survivors her fur coat, her underwear and all her clothing but a couple of blouses and a skirt. She took charge of the work of caring for the women and the few children brought aboard the Storstad by the lifeboats, preparing hot drinks and nourishing food.

Mrs. Andersen denies that the lifeboats of the Empress—one of which was in command of Capt. Kendall—did any effective work in rescuing survivors. On the contrary, she declares, two of the Empress lifeboats were deserted alongside the Storstad by members of the crew of the Empress and were taken by members of the crew of the Storstad and used in rescuing many people.

MRS. ANDERSEN'S STORY OF THE DISASTER.

Her full statement follows: "It was terrible, but I think it is funny that the papers can blame us like they do. My husband was not on the bridge before the collision; he was down sleeping and everything was going on as usual. He always told the mate to call him if anything was wrong or if there was fog. But it was a bright, clear night when he retired to his bed at 11 o'clock, and he had left instructions to be called just before we took on the pilot at Father Point. A little before 3 o'clock the mate called down through the speaking tube and said, 'I think there will be a fog.' 'All right,' my husband said, and he jumped out of bed, just put on his trousers and ran to the cabin door with his slippers in his hand.

"Are you anxious? I asked him, and he replied, 'Yes, I don't know why, but I am.' He jumped up and opened the door in a minute and went up. He often used to be up all night, and I never went up, but something seemed to tell me that there might be something wrong, and I jumped up also and put on my stockings and my boots and put on a skirt over my nightdress. I did not stop to take off my nightdress and put on a coat.

"My husband blew down the tube, 'get up, and I said, 'I am all right,' and then there was a bump. But I was standing by the bed, and it did not even throw me forward. In a minute I was on the bridge and then I saw the Empress right against our bows. Everything happened so quick-
